25X1 25X1 25X1	1. During the period of report I spent two days at the University of Pittsburgh attending classes and visiting with the director and faculty of the executive management program known as Management Problems for Executives. Purpose of the visit was to determine whether or not the Agency might use this program to accommodate (a) persons that cannot be accepted by Harvard because of quota restrictions, or (b) persons of slightly junior standing to those who qualify for the Harvard program. In general, the program in content and method resembles the Harvard Advanced Management Program with somewhat greater emphasis, however, on fiscal matters. My impression is that the calibre of instruction and student body is about one notch below the standard at Harvard. It is a commendable program, however, and I recommend that we consider using it in a small way for persons who cannot be sent to Harvard because of quota restrictions or personal qualifications. I feel the course is suitable for GS-14-15s, and possibly 13s. Specifically, I suggest that we invite to attend the next fall session.
